

THE SASSER FAMILY MISSIONARY TO THE JEWS

Shalom y'all, hope everyone has been having a great summer. It has been a busy one for us. Though we haven't had as many meetings I have been staying busy here at my home church and working with Jews in the area. God has opened the door for me to meet several Jewish families in the area. With everything going on in Israel they are very open to talking to any one who stands with them. The war in Israel is still progressing and getting worse every day. Just when you think maybe things will slow down some, it fires back up again. My dad has been over there a few times now and the doors are still very open for us getting the supplies and the gospel to the soldiers over there. I want to go back over but am trying to have discernment and just wait on the Lords timing for me to go back. I'm not really afraid for my life over there, but just concerned for my family incase I were to get stuck over there. It takes a tole on my wife and kids when I go to a country that is at war as you could imagine. Every time I have gone over so far both my wife and I have had complete peace about it. With Amanda being pregnant I didn't want to leave her by herself. That being said I am happy to say that the baby has come! Ridley Renee Sasser was born August 23 at 9:20 pm. She was 6.12 pounds and a head full of hair. A lot smaller then the other two, which my Amanda was very thankful for. Both mommy and baby are doing great. Ridley is already growing well and we thank God for how well every thing has gone. Please pray for me as I adjust to being outnumbered by girls in my house. I can feel my hair turning gray already!

Something else I would like to share with y'all that God has done this past month is about my Dad and Moms neighbors "Eric and Alicia". Before my mom passed away she had been inviting her young neighbors to come to the church that I attend here in Hanover. Alicia had promised my mom she would come to church with her, but then my mom passed away suddenly. But despite that a few Sundays later she kept her promise and both Alicia and her husband visited the church. They started coming faithfully on Sunday mornings. Long story short I had the privilege of talking with them and they both excepted Christ as their Savior and were baptized. The very next Sunday Eric brought his family with him. That day his brother, mother, sister, and two of his nieces got saved! They have all been coming to church and have started growing in the Lord more and more. Even after my mom has gone to heaven God is still working with the seeds she left. I'm just thankful that God allowed me to be apart of seeing one of the seeds get watered and bloom.

Thank you all for your faithful prayers and support.
